To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to share my insights on Hailey Meyr's tenure as a UI/UX Designer at BigPxl from June 2021 to December 2023. Hailey consistently demonstrated a solid understanding of design principles, contributing positively to our projects, including the design of websites, display advertisements, lead-magnets,  and emails for various CRMs.

Hailey's enthusiasm for learning and embracing new challenges is noteworthy. Her proficiency in Figma design and Elementor, along with her eagerness to explore new tools and techniques, showcases her adaptability and commitment to staying current in the field.

In collaborative efforts, Hailey has been a valuable team player, providing valuable input and actively engaging in group projects. Her commitment to her work is evident, and she approaches her tasks with a positive attitude.

Hailey consistently demonstrates a commitment to professional growth by actively seeking guidance from management to enhance her effectiveness in navigating tasks and projects. This collaborative approach underscores her value for input and feedback from colleagues, fostering a positive and inclusive work environment.

In conclusion, Hailey is a dedicated team member with a strong foundation in design principles. With the right mentorship and support, she has the potential to further flourish in her role.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at alex@bigpxl.com.

Sincerely,

Alex Solomon
Strategy Director | BigPxl